Inimitable flair.

Brenda Duncan never fails to mesmerize with her eye-catching pieces, which simply stun. Drawing inspiration from the clay itself, Brenda describes pottery making as powerful and yet, mysterious. Anyone fortunate enough to be privy to her creations will agree, that there must be some magic in the making. Whatever the clay whispers, Brenda visually conceives and always leaves us wanting more.

Her indulgence of the artform has taken her on a nearly twenty-year journey, that appeals even more with the passage of time. To some of her sculptures she adds a dash of humour that evokes wide smiles and hearty laughs. Quite diverse in her conceptualization, Brenda finds bonding with her medium of choice an intimate, therapeutic connection to which nothing else can really compare.

For her patience, time, and extraordinary craftsmanship she is rewarded with a sense of pride that is unparalleled. It's anyone's guess what else she has in store, but we're waiting with bated breath to be captivated once again.
