A world of pure imagination.

Having experienced an array of professional callings, Brenda ventured into the world of pottery in 2016. "My work is a combination of wheel throwing and hand building. I am able to combine my passion for pottery with my painting and cake decorating skills. My enthusiasm for surface decorating is apparent, as I use a combination of molds, stamps, rollers, carving and painting, to make each piece unique."

Admitting that she once briefly contemplated becoming a graphic artist, that dream was pushed aside when she became a Registered Nurse. Having found success in raising a family, she also discovered personal gratification in a nursing professor position at Seneca College, alongside amazing travels to Peru, Africa, Jamaica, India and the Dominican Republic.

Brenda's mental expansion has fueled her dream of creating her own home studio. "I now seem to live and breathe pottery. I take comfort in knowing that my creations will give people joy. I love naming my sculptures and am pleased when they go to a good home."
