A sweet sense of nostalgia.

Georgina is driven to create by curiosity and passion. Just the thought of a new creation, triggers memories of the texture and malleability of clay. She finds the medium awe-inspiring.

Georgina's pottery making process is cultivated by decades of painting and, what a journey it has been. "I attended the Dundas School of Art from 1965 to 1978, and focused mainly on figure drawing. I also took sculpture classes with Elizabeth Holbrook and Carl Schaeter. Subsequently, I specialized in fine art with a minor in wood working, at the Ontario College of Art and graduated with a GPA High Pass.

Georgina has proudly exhibited at several top galleries including the Westlands Art Gallery in Alberta; and Calgary Stampede. In 1996, she won a contract to paint a mural for exhibits depicting ranch life, for the Western Heritage Museum in Cochrane, Alberta. The London Potters Guild (LPG) beckoned in 2008, and skills learnt through the LPG in its former home have added a new dimension to her artistry. Georgina's skillfully wandering heart, has come home.
